

“Innovative approaches to the Global Dimension”

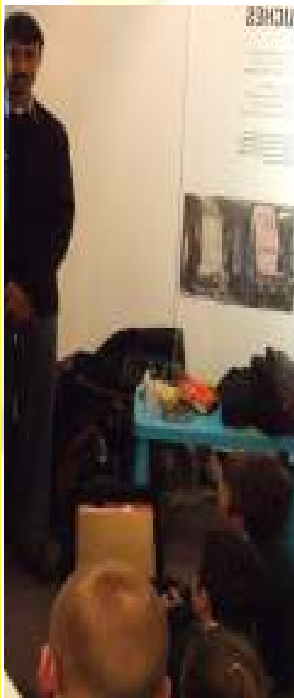

Calling all Schools...

- ◇ Do you need help in teaching the global dimension?
- ◇ Are you interested in getting practical support on issues about what makes a sustainable school?

Well Liverpool World Centre may be able to help.

As Merseyside’s own Development Education Centre with over eight years experience of educating young people and adults about global issues, we are fully qualified and experienced to deliver in-house and customised sessions for teachers and young people of all ages. The choice is yours!

What we can offer

Interactive Sessions with Young People

We use participatory methodologies such as the expressive arts, drama, music, and storytelling to stimulate young people’s learning and encourage active debate around global issues

Costs: £200 per half day class session
£350 per full day class session

Training the Trainer sessions

Practical training for staff on the global dimension and sustainable schools to accompany international and Eco School work programmes

Costs: Inset session: £350 per session
Open access session: £120 per person full day
£60 per person half day

Access to Resources

As a member of Liverpool World Centre, your school can use our Resource Hub and borrow books, materials and other resources to help educate young people about issues such as Fair Trade, Climate Change, Sustainability and Global Conflict

Costs: £45/50 (Primary/ Secondary fee)
